

Meetings in Agile

1. Sprint Planning

This meeting kicks off a new sprint (typically lasting 1–4 weeks) to determine what work the team will commit to delivering .

- Who Attends: Product Owner, Scrum Master, and Development Team .
- Duration: Usually 2 hours for every 1 week of a sprint's duration .
- Goal: The Product Owner presents top-priority items . The team then assesses, estimates effort, and agrees on the Sprint Goal and the specific tasks they will complete.

2. Daily Stand-up (Daily Scrum)

A quick, daily alignment meeting to ensure everyone is on track and to identify any obstacles .

- Who Attends: Development Team (Scrum Master and Product Owner can observe) .
 - Duration: Maximum of 15 minutes .
 - Goal: Each team member briefly answers three questions: What did I complete yesterday? What am I working on today? Are there any blockers in my way?

3. Sprint Review

Held at the end of the sprint to showcase the work that was completed and gather stakeholder feedback .

- Who Attends: Scrum Team, Product Owner, and relevant stakeholders .
 - Duration: Typically 1 to 2 hours for a two-week sprint.
 - Goal: The team demonstrates working software or tangible product increments. The Product Owner reviews the backlog and adjusts future priorities based on stakeholder feedback .

4. Sprint Retrospective

A dedicated session for the team to reflect on the recently concluded sprint and identify ways to improve their workflow .

- Who Attends: Entire Scrum team .
- Duration: Typically 1 to 1.5 hours .

- Goal: The team discusses what went well, what did not go well, and commits to at least one actionable improvement for the next sprint .

5. Backlog Refinement (Grooming)

An ongoing working session to prepare the product backlog for upcoming sprints .

- Who Attends: Product Owner and Development Team .
- Duration: Usually 1–2 hours per week .
- Goal: Breaking down large user stories, adding details, and re-estimating tasks so that work is ready for the next Sprint Planning .
